Subject: Fiscal Year 2022 Audit Work Plan

I am pleased to present the Office of the Inspector General's Fiscal Year 2022 Annual Audit Work Plan. We prioritize our work to focus our resources on those areas that are most vulnerable to fraud, waste, and abuse. The Plan includes the reviews we plan to begin in Fiscal Year 2022. Our Plan is dynamic, so we encourage continuous feedback and additional study suggestions. This flexibility enables us to meet emerging and critical issues evolving during the upcoming year.

If you wish to discuss this Work Plan, please contact me or have your staff contact Kristen Schnatterly.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

FISCAL YEAR 2022 AUDIT WORK PLAN

CHALLENGES FACING AGENCY MANAGEMENT

Since 1997, we have provided our perspective on the top challenges facing the Social Security Administration (SSA) management to Congress, the Agency, and other key decisionmakers. For Fiscal Year (FY) 2022, we have identified the following six management challenges.

Improve Service Delivery

SSA estimates it will pay over $1.2 trillion to over 74 million beneficiaries and recipients in FY 2022. Among its workloads, the Agency expects to process, 9.2 million initial Old-Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance (OASDI) claims and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) applications and over 100 million post-entitlement actions. SSA faces growing workloads but expects that more than 21,000 of its almost 61,000 employees will retire by the end of FY 2022. The Agency must also focus on strengthening its representative payment program, to ensure the protection of its most vulnerable customers, and the Agency must continue implementing the provisions of the Strengthening Protections for Social Security Beneficiaries Act of 2018. The COVID-19 pandemic has amplified these challenges.

The Social Security Administration's Response to the COVID-19 Pandemic

COVID-19 changed the manner in which SSA serves its customers. Before the President declared COVID-19 as a national emergency on March 13, 2020, over 40 million of its customers, annually, visited field offices for service. In response to the declaration, and to ensure the safety of its customers and employees, SSA maximized telework and limited its field office operations to in-person service by appointment only for certain dire need situations. SSA had to ensure the vast majority of its approximately 62,000 employees had the resources needed to telework so it could help manage the increased customer traffic to its online services and National 800 number. In FY 2021, we issued a final report on SSA's telephone services,¹ and two interim reports on the safety of SSA employees and visitors² and SSA's processing of mail and enumeration services during the COVID-19 Pandemic.³ We are further reviewing telephone services, employee and visitor safety, and other aspects of SSA's response to the pandemic.

Improve Administration of the Disability Programs

SSA continues to face challenges with disability hearings processing times, and the COVID-19 pandemic's renewed challenges with pending disability claims and continuing disability reviews (CDR). Before the COVID-19 pandemic began, SSA had reduced the number of initial disability claims pending from almost 708,000 at the end of FY 2012 to almost 594,000 at the end of FY 2019 and had eliminated the backlog of full medical CDRs in FY 2018. COVID-19 pandemic responses, such as State disability determination services closures and delayed consultative examinations, posed challenges to the initial disability claims process. By June 2021, claims pending levels had increased 20 percent to almost 714,000. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, starting in March 2020, SSA suspended processing medical CDRs that could result in benefit cessation. The number of full medical CDRs SSA processed decreased from over 713,000 in FY 2019 to approximately 463,000 in FY 2020. In FY 2022, we plan to review how the COVID-19 pandemic affected disability and CDR workloads, including plans for addressing backlogs and best practices for responding to operational challenges in the future.

While SSA has continued reducing the hearings backlog and processing times, it has not achieved its processing time goal of 270 days. As of June 2021, the average processing time for hearings was 318 days, down from a high of 605 days in FY 2017, and pending levels were 361,533, down from a high of 1,122,014 in FY 2016. However, it is not clear whether SSA's initiatives contributed to the improvements since the number of disability receipts also decreased. As such, in FY 2022, we plan to review SSA's plan to reduce the hearings backlog and average wait time for hearings.

Improve the Prevention, Detection, and Recovery of Improper Payments

SSA issues approximately $1 trillion in benefit payments annually. Given the amounts involved, even a slight error occurring in the payment process can result in millions of dollars in overpayments or underpayments. In its financial report, SSA estimated it made approximately $7.9 billion in improper payments in FY 2019.⁴ Of those, $6.6 billion were overpayments and $1.3 billion were underpayments. We believe the Agency needs to (1) prevent improper payments through automation and data analytics that identify changes that affect benefit payments; (2) expand efforts to collect data from reliable third-party sources; (3) do more to address the root causes of improper payments; (4) ensure staff have adequate training and technology; and (5) periodically review manual processes to determine whether they can be automated to reduce computation errors.

Modernize Information Technology

SSA relies on its information technology (IT) infrastructure to serve the public and safeguard SSA programs. However, its aging IT infrastructure is increasingly difficult and expensive to maintain. SSA reports that budget constraints have forced it to use much of its IT funding to operate and maintain existing systems. To ensure the Agency can keep pace with increasing workloads, it must maintain its legacy systems while developing their modern replacements. However, SSA faces challenges in executing and implementing major IT projects and delivering expected functions on schedule and within budget. In addition, the Agency requires modern software engineering tools and skills that could make its operations more efficient. To address its modernization challenges, SSA needs to (1) prioritize modernization activities to ensure available resources lead to improvements with the greatest impact on SSA's operations and the service it provides the public; and (2) ensure its IT planning and investment control processes are effective.

Protect the Confidentiality, Integrity, and Availability of the Agency's Information Systems and Data

SSA's IT supports every aspect of SSA's mission, whether it is serving the public during in-person interviews or online, routing millions of telephone calls on its National 800 number, or posting millions of earnings wage reports annually. Disruptions to the integrity or availability of its information systems would dramatically affect SSA's ability to serve the public and meet its mission. Also, SSA's systems contain personally identifiable information, such as the Social Security number which, if not protected, could be misused by identity thieves.
